Golden Solution

Individual Whole Life Insurance Policy designed to cover final expenses.

Examples of why Final Expense Life Insurance has become very popular...

1. Mrs. Jackson wanted to leave something to each of her 4 grandchildren. She chose a $20,000 policy so that each of her grandchildren would receive $5,000 (tax-free) when she passes away.
2. Mr. White already had $7,000 worth of life insurance, but was concerned about inflation, so he took out $5,000 more.
3. Mr. & Mrs. Peters did not have any final expense life insurance. They each purchased a $10,000 policy so they would not have to “cash-in” their CD when one of them dies.

The acceleration-of-life-insurance benefits offered under these riders may or may not qualify for favorable tax treatment under the Internal Revenue Code of 1986. Whether such benefits qualify depends on factors such as your life expectancy at the time benefits are accelerated or whether you use the benefits to pay for necessary long term care expenses, such as nursing home care. If the acceleration-of-life-insurance benefits qualify for favorable tax treatment, the benefits will be excludable from your income and not subject to federal taxation. Tax laws relating to acceleration-of-life-insurance benefits are complex. You are advised to consult with a qualified tax advisor about circumstances under which you could receive acceleration-of-life-insurance benefits excludable from income under federal law.

Receipt of acceleration-of-life-insurance benefits may affect your, your spouse or your family's eligibility for public assistance programs such as medical assistance (Medicaid), Aid to Families with Dependent Children (AFDC), supplementary social security income (SSI), and drug assistance programs. You are advised to consult with a qualified tax advisor and with social service agencies concerning how receipt of such a payment will affect your spouse's or your family's eligibility for public assistance.
